Diving in Pulau Weh

The diving
Bored with rigid schedules, busy dive boats and crowded resorts. Looking to kick back in a hammock on a deserted beach and have spectacular diving at your doorstep? Pulau Weh is the place for you. Located an hour north of Banda Aceh on the Northern tip of Sumatra, this special location has an end-of-the-world feel to it. Indeed, 20 minutes drive past your resort you'll find Kilometre Zero, the westernmost point of Indonesia from which the government measures distances.

With steep underwater drop-offs and both oceanic and local currents converging, this is a location where interactions with big stuff such as mantas and larger sharks are a distinct possibility. On every dive expect to see reef sharks, turtles and rays cruising the dramatic moray eel-infested underwater topography. In addition, the beach dive in front of the dive shop is gaining a deserved reputation for critter diving, with ghost pipefish, waspfish and even mimic octopus being regularly found. Boat dives are single dives and the house reef can be dived anytime...

Diving in Pulau Weh

This is only a selection of the many dive sites represented on this particular destination. The diving is dictated by the safeness of the environment.

Batee Tokong Pulau Weh's flagship site is a pinnacle that allows a diver to be as exposed or sheltered as he/she likes. Beginners can drop on the lee-side and enjoy being in fish soup seeing more morays than they thought possible. Meanwhile more advanced divers can drop on the current-side and observe the Giant Trevally and Black Tips cruising the streams... or even drop blue on the NE ridge named Shark Plateau where you work hard for your reward of possible Grey Reefs, Mobula and barracuda. All guided by local DMs with years of experience of reading current and conditions.

Pantee Peunateung Located on the western side of Pulau Weh on the exposed Indian Ocean coast, this site is condition-reliant but should not be missed if it's possible. Peunateung is the local Acehnese word for rice terraces and this is reflected in the terrace-like topography. With walls dropping to over 100m and 1km deep water only 800m out to sea, this is the site that has the best record for encounters with true pelagics: marlin, mola mola, thresher sharks and hammerheads have all been here. More regular visitors include schooling barracuda and trevally, napoleon wrasse and leopard sharks. An advanced dive for those who like a bit of action and a chance of the unexpected.

Gapang Beach Right in front of the diveshop is a great dive site for all levels. Whether you're a beginner still finding your way or a 1000 dive photographer looking for something new, you won't be disappointed. With a resident turtle, clear blue water and soft white sand for practicing your buoyancy skills for the learner, the experienced diver with the aid of the hawk-eyed DM's can find all manner of funky stuff, including ghost pipefish, frogfish, mantis shrimp and even the odd mimic octopus. All a 40m swim from the diveshop; no need to book or plan... just grab your weights, a tank and a buddy and see you in up to 90 minutes! Record time set by a photographer? 115 minutes! And as for the nightdive? Superb!
