The diving

The waters around Mantaray Island Resort are an internationally recognized refuge for Manta Rays.

With or without these creatures present, the diving is outstanding all year round and shouldn't be missed! But, each year between May and October the waters are blessed with the elegance of the Pacific Manta Ray. So if you do have the freedom to plan, then hit their season! As many as thirteen manta rays have been recorded in front of the resort at one time. Daily snorkeling trips allow visitors to experience these magnificent creatures up close as they glide majestically through the nutrient rich channel just around the corner. This strait can't be dived, but the reefs just outside sports over 25 dive sites, and they certainly can. In these Pacific waters you will find sublime visibility and an extremely colorful marine life hanging out on healthy reefs. The house reef just in front of the beach is a perfect example of the wealth in this area.

No matter what previous experience you have in diving you need to keep in mind that it is the Pacific, you can't go wrong on the diving here!

This is only a selection of the many dive sites represented on this particular destination. The diving is dictated by the safeness of the environment.

The Beach

This beach can offer just as many rewards as joining the boat for the more isolated dive sites. Although this may not offer the thrill of a huge drop off, the amount of life it houses is more than enough to make up for it. If you are more interested in the fish life, the beach is probably the best for variety, with all major schools inhabiting here. Fish are abundant in the middle where the current picks up above the hard red coral, with sergeant majors dominating. Schools of yellow snapper hang around at the end of this chain, and bannerfish hover silently and effortlessly under pillars of coral. Look closely into the necks of some of the corals, and you may find some anemone shrimp creeping along the folds of an adhesive anemone. Always looking closely at the coral will benefit you, you'll see the hidden treasures.

Caves of Babylon

For those who want a bit more of a ethereal (mystic) experience, the caves may be a new encounter for you. This dive starts around 15-18m with a variety of caves depending on the direction of the current, and the ability level of the group. Once you've entered the caves the sunlight will stream from the other end, illuminating tiny fish snuggling together in a tight school in the protection of the caves. A very 'Aladdin' feel, unfortunately no hidden treasure in terms of trunks of gold, but nudibranchs often take shelter in the caves and the pleasures of the coral garden that awaits you is reward enough.

The Blue Room

The 'Blue Room' earned its name because of its depth, with a bluish tinge streaking the bottom. The volcanic wall is guaranteed good visibility, being a bit further from the shoreline. You're more likely to see some pelagic activity at this site, and hopefully our herd of bumpheaded parrotfish - 24 in total - will make an appearance for you. If you like your dinnerfish wahu, spanish mackerel, and yellow fin tuna are frequent visitors, attracting in turn the pelagics. There is a maori wrasse that also lives amongst the depths, so keep your eyes peeled.

Transfer Information

The Yasawas is a long group of islands, all of them very different from each other. Therefore many travelers prefer to explore/experience several of these on a single trip. One clever company has provided an extended boat schedule service to take the so-called "island hoppers" back and forth between the islands. Each and every day you can catch a ferry and "jump" one, two or several islands North or South. Check with your local KILROY office for details on schedules, prices and accommodation between the islands.

You need to let the dive center know your arrival at least one week in advance. You will find the details for the dive center on your voucher.
