Introduction to course

The RAID Open Water Diver course is a globally recognized certification and one of the most popular entry-level diving courses available. Upon completing this course, you'll be certified to dive independently with a buddy to a depth of 20 meters, opening up a world of underwater exploration.

The course is divided into comprehensive modules that combine both theoretical and practical learning. You begin with self-study through RAID's interactive online platform, where you'll work through modules, complete knowledge reviews, and watch instructional videos that reinforce what you've learned. Your RAID instructor will guide you through the material, ensuring you fully understand all the concepts before moving on.

Practical training starts in confined water sessions, where you'll practice essential diving skills in a safe, controlled environment. Once you're comfortable, you'll progress to four open water dives.

The course concludes with a final exam, a multiple-choice test covering everything you've learned. The RAID Open Water course is performance-based, allowing you to progress at your own pace, typically taking 3 to 4 days to complete all theoretical lessons, confined water sessions, and open water dives. By the end, you'll have the skills and confidence to dive independently with a buddy.
